belmont's vision themes begin to take shape

The seven Belmont Visioning Committees, comprised of nearly 80 dedicated people who live or work in our community, have been working hard this summer. As a result, exciting themes for the City's vision statement are beginning to take shape!

In May, the City launched an unprecedented, community-wide effort to shape the future of Belmont. The goal of the visioning effort is to provide the Belmont community with a sense of direction and a framework for evaluating future policy decisions. The vision that emerges will provide a critical foundation for the City's Economic Development Strategy and the General Plan update.

A series of energizing and productive meetings have been held this summer. Each Visioning Committee met four times to explore what Belmont is today, what trends are likely to influence its future, what values we share, and what we want our community to look like in twenty years or even fifty years. Three "all-committee" sessions were also held, offering members an opportunity to come together to share their work and identify common threads across the ideas that surfaced.

On Vision Saturday, September 6, the entire Belmont community will have a chance to learn more about the Committees' work and to share their own visions for the future. We hope to see you there!
